

5 Of The Best New Beers Of 2026, So Far

By Deepak Narayanan • Oct. 4, 2026 11:30 am EST

Super Burrito

Super Burrito is a Mexican-style double lager from Dust Bowl Brewing Company. Unlike American lagers, which are usually light, crisp, and uncomplicated, Mexican lagers tend to be more flavorful, carrying sweet, bready notes from corn (here are 12, ranked worst to best). Dust Bowl Brewing's Taco Truck Lager is a prime example — and the brewery actually describes Super Burrito as Taco Truck's big brother, packed with bolder flavors and a bigger punch at 8.1% ABV. "We've had great success with our Taco Truck family of Mexican-style lagers. Super Burrito has the body and drinkability of those smaller beers but comes in with more strength for those looking for a bigger option," Don Oliver, the Brewmaster at Dust Bowl Brewing Co., was quoted as saying by The Brewer Magazine in May.

By all accounts, it really is easy to drink. It has 167 reviews on Untappd with an average rating of 3.8, and multiple customers tagging the beer as "refreshing" and "crushable." Over on Instagram, one user said the experience of drinking an 8.1% ABV lager was "very interesting," adding that the beer "pours with a light golden color and has a crystal clear, see through appearance." Another fan, commenting on Dust Bowl's Instagram post, called it "Taco Truck Of The Gods."

Super Burrito is available for retail in four-packs of 16-ounce cans, as well as single-serve, 19.2-ounce cans.